The network has set the launch date for September 15, but the channel will be available to cable and telco providers everywhere from the beginning. The details and programming for FSPN are still up in the air, but one thing is for sure: it's going to be a SportsCenter-style channel and it's going to be interesting to see how they stack up against ESPN. I'm interested to see how "world wide leader" ESPN responds to the threat of FSPN and its World Wide Leader channel. Brian Roberts, CEO of Comcast Ventures and BH Media, is set to be the lead executive of the channel, according to a report from Reuters. Just a couple of weeks ago, reports claimed that Verizon was in talks with cable operators to launch ESPN 2, but it looks like those talks are over and FSPN is the Verizon plan to get around ESPN's stranglehold on college sports.
